Notes:

Some ships, which also or primarily send messages via an AWS, are listed twice

There are many reports from unknown ships; these are likely to be pseudonyms of ships with known call signs, some of which are listed here, with others listed below with their names.

Some ships may have transmission issues or may be reporting using one of the unknown identifiers:

The following ships and yachts are known or suspected to have visited Antarctic waters in 2023/2024, but no synoptic reports were received whilst south of 60°. Records are from direct AIS transmissions, via Palmer AIS and from Global Fishing Watch, which has recently updated its system. It is clear that some other ships (tourist, cargo, research, fishing and yachts) have visited, but no call-sign information was available for them. Launches are not monitored. Where the call sign is not known an MMSI number is given if possible.
